

The Intelligencer.

OFFICE, 25 & 27 Fourteenth St.

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1874.

The situation at Steubenville. We supposed a few days ago, from what we heard at Washington Hall from Rev. Mr. Stewart, that all the schools at our neighboring seat of war had closed. These that the women had not closed we supposed the City Council had shut up. But it seems that several of them are open again. If indeed they were ever closed. They are not selling in the same way, however, as formerly. Instead of that they have supplied themselves with glasses that hold a quart. In this quantity they sell to their customers, who go out to the backyard, or to the pavement, and drain the contents at their leisure. The temperance people contend that this mode operates in a plain violation of the city ordinance. Their interpretation is as follows:

"The ordinance expressly says that houses where beer and porter are sold shall be prohibited in the city. It does not say we cannot drink beer from a small glass but you may from a large one. It seems hardly worth while to have an ordinance if it is not going to be put into effect."

But notwithstanding this new device of the Ladies Temperance League have not given up the contest. On the contrary we notice that they still publish their daily bulletin in the newspapers. In their last bulletin they state to the result of the recent elections in some of the cities and towns where their sisters had been at work, and where, as they express it, "the devoted work of many weeks is all overturned by the simple vote of the men." Yet they are not dismayed at the task before them. They are still willing to go forth to battle.

"If it were not for our trust in God, surely in some places, we would be discouraged. But we have often seen the wicked in great power and spreading himself like a green bay tree. Yet he has passed away and the transgressors were destroyed together. But the salvation of the righteous is of the Lord, and He is their strength in time of trouble. And He shall help them and deliver them from the wicked and save them because they trust in Him."
